

Maupin's Way of Thinking...

Prepared Specially for the Herald, By WILL M. MAUPIN.

Talkative Teddy.

He smote the haughty Spaniard, and he smote him hip and thigh,
He charged the heights of San Juan hill and made the Spanish fly;
He broke the bucking broncho and subdued him to his will,
And whole trainloads of catamounts he slew with wondrous skill.
From east to west he stratted on, he posed from north to south,
And of the life called strenuous he prated with his mouth.
He talked of "deeds, not words," and said he'd shackle cunning tight,—
But trusts knew well they had him, and they knew they had him right.
They let him prate and work his mouth from dawn till dewy eve,
And knew full well they had a cinch and never stopped to grieve.
When Teddy reared straight up and swore he'd put 'em in a box,
The trust just winked the other eye and pinned their faith on Knox.
And Morgan, Schwab, and Hill and Gates, and all the blooming push
Know that a Teddy well in hand beats sneaking through the bush.
And so they let him talk away and mouth each dreadful threat,
For Teddy hasn't made a move to shackle cunning yet.
We hear a lot from Oyster Bay—the words come thick and fast—
And ev'ry new made threat we hear is stronger than the last.
But all the trusts just smile and give the price another boost,
And still the strenuous flow from Ted is unreduced.
It's words from early morning, and it's words till late at night,
And still the trusts screw up the price and hoist it out of sight.
O, Teddy! Talking Teddy from Long Island's sandy dunes,
You say you're full of holy zeal—the people know it's prunes.

There's mortgage on the corner, Bix; the summer kitchen, too; unplanted crops in the same fix—now wouldn't that freeze you? Forget the pig of which you spoke; forget the cow called Speck, and swat your banker friend from Polk upon his rubber neck.
His is a rubberneck, dear Bix, for it's stretched out to see that ev'ry mortgage he has sticks through all eternity on everything a poor cuss owns, from cribs to future crops; from kitchen down to aching bones—he gets all ere he stops.

Yes, Mickey is a farmer, Bix, but not of fertile soil; to chattel loans friend Mickey sticks with interest-grabbing toil. He plows the mortgage records through, sows chattel loans broadcast, and reaps the stuff when overdue and holds it tight and and fast.

During the recent hard times a renter in Polk county went to "Farmer" Mickey and asked for a loan of $35. "Farmer" Mickey made the loan on a chattel mortgage. The borrower had a very little to mortgage, but he gave it on that little. He plastered the mortgage on little corner, on a little summer kitchen he had built for his good wife, and agreed to make a new mortgage on the thirty-eight acres of crop when the crop was planted. When he called at "Farmer" Mickey's bank to perform his agreement and execute a mortgage on the thirty-eight acres of crop, he was informed that "Farmer" Mickey had learned that he had planted forty-nine acres instead of thirty-eight acres. And the poor devil had to execute a mortgage on forty-nine acres of crop instead of on thirty-eight as agreed, because "Farmer" Mickey couldn't afford to take any chances on his having anything left unmortgaged as security for the $35 loan. An expert declares that the mortgage on the crops was executed by "Farmer" Mickey's own hand.

If "Hell Roaring Jake" Smith is guilty, then Roosevelt was wrong when he said the war had been conducted with unparalleled humanity and forbearance. If "Hell Roaring Jake" Smith is innocent, then Roosevelt has sacrificed Smith to further Roosevelt's interests. Will some good republican paper please say which is which?

"Farmer" Mickey says he will be elected by 25,000 majority. If he can figure votes like he figures interest he may be.

Mike Harrington had business at the state house a few days ago, and wanted to see Attorney General Prout. Stepping into the attorney general's office Mike asked of Norris Brown:

"Hello, Norris; is Prout in?"
"Yes," replied Norris; "he's in but he can't be seen now."
"Great God!" exclaimed Mike, "has he got as small as that?"

Senator Deirich appointed a postmaster at Wahoo over the almost unanimous protest of the Saunders county republican leaders, giving as his reason that he agreed with D. E. Thompson to do so. When a prominent Lancaster republican heard Deirich's explanation he growled:

"Some of these days a man will put a pistol to D. E. Thompson's head and blow Deirich's brains out."

The more one hears and reads concerning the strenuous gentleman now rusticated and posing at Oyster Bay, the more one is reminded of what Congressman DeArmond of Missouri said about a certain Nebraska man, now deceased:

"He talks when he is not writing, and writes when he is not talking, and does both when he is not thinking."

If E. Rosewater ever finds a legislature he can control he will have a law passed prohibiting the World-Herald from reproducing editorials printed in the Bee. Every time Mr. Rosewater takes a stand on anything "Dick" Metcalfe digs up a Bee editorial showing that Rosewater was on the other side of the question less than six months before. Pending the enactment of such a law Mr. Rosewater might invoke the protection of the law against cruelty to animals.

The state republican committee has headquarters at the Lindell hotel in Lincoln. A traveling man sitting in front of the hotel the other day saw a young man with pale face and a haunted look in his eye dodging through the doors, sneaking around the corners and hiding in the corners.

"What 'nh'll's the matter with that duck?" queried the traveling man.

"Who?" asked a bystander.
"That guy there that looks like he was dodging the police."

"That? O, that's Harry Lindsey, chairman of the republican state central committee."

"Well, what 'n thunder makes him act that way?"

"I guess he's heard that Senator Deirich is in town and wants to find him and offer his services as a speaker in the campaign."

A light dawned in the traveling man's eyes.

"Well, b'gosh, I don't blame the poor devil for dodging. He's got all he can carry right now without adding that to his burden."

The republican organs that condemned Senator Bailey for resenting an insult have no trouble in commending Knox for doing the same thing. Every time republican logic sets out for a saunter it meets itself coming back.

J. Pierpont Morgan declares that poker is a wicked game. It is barely possible that Mr. Morgan has just tried to make a four-flush play against a king-full. The man who undergoes that experience usually arrives at the conclusion that poker is a wicked game.

We do not wonder that Mr. Morgan is opposed to the game of poker. In a poker game every man has a show to win, and Morgan prefers those games wherein he has a cinch.

The sugar beet crop of the United States is not as valuable as the corn crop of Nebraska. In fact, one year's good corn crop in Nebraska is worth more than all the sugar beets raised in the United States in any five years of the beet industry. But 76,000,000 people must be taxed to protect the "sugar beet infant."

Did you ever study a sequence in dates? It is quite interesting in these days of benevolent assimilation. For instance:

It was charged that brutality was being practiced by our soldiers in the Philippines.

Then the administration press said it was a lie, and that everybody who said it were traitors, copperheads and little Americans. Then Roosevelt came out in a speech and declared that the war in the Philippines had been conducted with unparalleled humanity and forbearance.

Then the administration press swore harder than ever that any man who charged brutality in the Philippines should be hanged as a traitor.

Then General Jacob Smith was charged with having issued an order to kill all male Filipinos over ten years of age and to make Samar a howling wilderness.

Once more the administration press denounced it as a lie.
Smith was tried by court martial.

found guilty of brutality and conduct prejudicial to the army and retired by order of the president.

Now, when the Anti-Imperialist League charges brutality and cruelty, and writes to the president asking for an investigation of charges the administration press throws another connipion fit, says the address is impudent, full of silly lies and breathes treason.

And every day the newspapers tell us of army officers reprimanded for cruelty.

Only a purblind partisan and political fool believes that one-tenth of the truth about conditions in the Philippines has been made public.

Injunctions stand only against men who work for a living, not against men who fatten off of the toil of others.

Governor Savage's letter to the Plumbers' union of Omaha was as unnecessary as it was foolish. When Savage averred that he had done more work for fifty cents than the plumbers ever did for $4 he proved nothing save that he was a blankety blank fool for working so hard for so little money. All the letter writing and speech writing Savage has done while in office has not fatigued him, but it has given "Bob" Clancey brain fog.

In the name of commonsense what did organized labor expect at the hands of a republican governor?
